

TRAINING
on
Human Resources Strategy for Researchers
(HRS4R)

*12 April, 2019
Valņu street 1
Riga, Latvia*

Trainer:

Dr. Isabelle Halleux, University of Liege

- | | |
|--------------------|---|
| 09:30 | Welcome of the participants |
| 10:00-10:30 | What you need to know about the HRS4R process?
Educational format: lecture |
| 10:30-12:30 | Experience the process 1 - How to identify gaps and to involve the stakeholders?
Educational format: individual and group work |
| 12:30-14:00 | Lunch Break |
| 14:00-16:00 | Experience the process 2 - What is important to deal with in the HRS4R?
Educational format: group work |
| 16:00-17:00 | Final recommendations and conclusions |

Trainer's profile

Isabelle Halleux is geological engineer and holds her PhD in Applied Sciences from the University of Liege in 1987. She did her post-doctoral career in a Belgian governmental research institute for Mines and Environment, after a research stay in Canada. She then specialised in Institutional Analysis, Group dynamics, and Education and Training Technologies.

Since 2002, she is Director of the Research Administration at the University of Liege. Her office (20 persons) is in charge of the research council affairs, including the internal funding, the general management of research contracts, the doctoral affairs. She is managing the EURAXESS initiatives at ULg that. The University of Liege is hosting a EURAXESS Mobility Service and is actively implementing the European Charter and Code (HR excellence in Research).

Dr. Halleux participated in many European projects, as partner or coordinator. She managed significant projects dealing with Researchers career development. She gives training on Ethics, OS, HRS4R, Researcher's Professional Attitude, Professional skills for research Leaders, Project management, Development of research administration, Governance of research. Isabelle Halleux supports Universities to develop their HRS4R process and is peer-reviewed for the process in name of the EU and Vitae-UK.

Dr. Halleux is also strongly involved in developing seminars for researchers in the context of cross-border initiatives, European project or institutional support to developing countries. She worked in Europe, Western Balkans, Africa, East Asia and South America.

Further information:

https://www.recherche.uliege.be/cms/c_9263814/en/hr-excellence